MISSOULA--

The University of Montana College of Arts and Sciences will offer a course entitled "Indian Life for the Contemporary Teacher" during the first four weeks of the 1979 Summer Session (June 18 - July 13).

This course will be offered for six graduate credits and will provide an introduction and review of the institutions, tribal histories, human and natural resources and current issues on the seven Montana reservations. Questions of cultural conflict experienced in traditional classrooms located on or near Indian reservations will be addressed. The course will also provide a complete review of Indian education funding sources and administration.

Information is available at the UM Center for Continuing Education and Summer Programs, Main Hall 107, University of Montana, Missoula, MT 59812 or by phoning 243-2900.
